WHEREAS, 30 states, in an attempt to support price transparency efforts and make information more accessible for consumers, employers, researchers, and others, have already established, or are developing, all-payer claims databases; and

WHEREAS, a 2018 joint report entitled "Reforming America’s Healthcare System through Choice and Competition" was issued by the United States Department of Health and Human Services, United States Department of the Treasury, and the United States Department of Labor; and

WHEREAS, the report recommended that states "build consumer-friendly websites capable of displaying price information for the most common transactions, . . . coordinate their efforts on maximizing the utility of claims data," and simplify the process for reporting data "using a standard reporting format"; and

WHEREAS, the continued increase in health care prices is a burden on Kentucky households and consumers;
